AS THE SIBERIAN WEATHER FRONT SENDS TEMPERATURES PLUMMETING NOW'S THE TIME TO HEAT YOUR HOME EFFICIENTLY

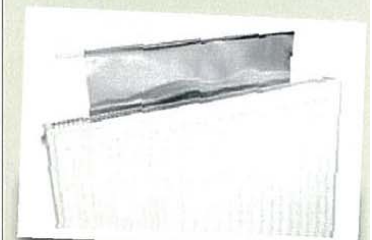

AFTER one of the warmest winters on record, the cold weather has finally arrived in Britain.

Michael Watson, CEO of Radflek, a radiator reflector manufacturer, has some top tips for keeping warm without turning the heating up - and costing you a fortune.

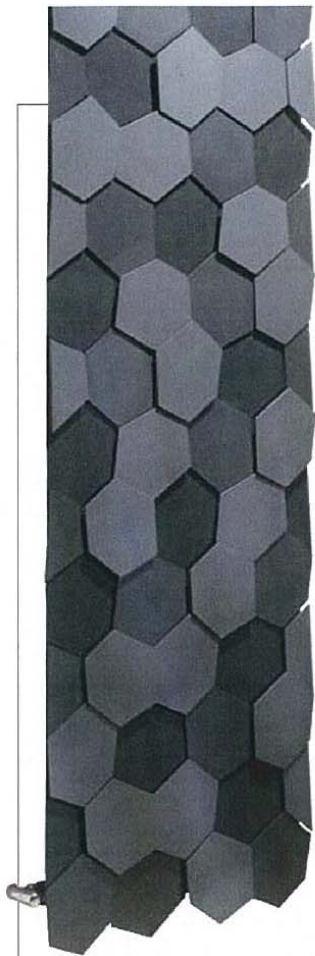

"With energy bills still a worry for many people it's better to avoid turning the heating up, tempting as that may be. But that doesn't mean you have to put up with being cold. A few simple actions can help you get more out of your radiators, keep your home warm and reduce energy waste.

"Installing Radflek radiator reflectors will direct the heat back into your room, instead of out through the wall. Drawing the curtains can also stop the heat escaping outside. Don't dry clothes on the radiators as this stops the heating working as well. Likewise, radiators with furniture in front of them have to work harder to heat the room, so do leave space around them."

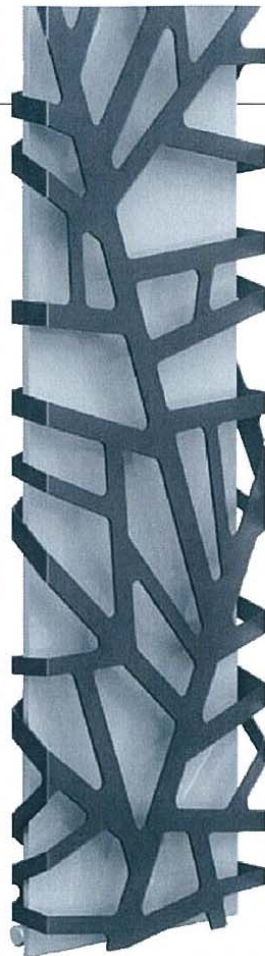

Amazingly radiators typically direct 40 per cent of their heat the wrong way - towards the wall. Radflek Radiator Reflectors reflect 95 per cent of the heat energy radiated back into the room from the rear of the radiator, to reduce the heat lost through the wall behind it. This allows households to turn the thermostat down and save on heating bills. Radflek reflectors are cheap to buy and simple to install and remove. Depending on the wall and the heating energy source, Radflek can pay for itself in six to 12 months.
